Power BI on the Web

Power BI has revolutionized the way organizations work with data and share insights. With Power BI Embedded you can unlock the same interactive experience for external users, clients, and customers.

During this proof-of-concept we will together perform the steps needed to publish a selected Power BI report to the web, making it available for your customers to interact with.

- Remote meeting: We start with a short remote meeting where we discuss expectations and identify what report we should focus on if necessary data is available, how data flows etc. This could be an existing report that you have been working on yourself or a report we create together.

- Proof-of-concept: When we have defined the scope for the first report we plan for the actual Proof-of-concept. During this phase, we will meet (online or physical) and together create the report and publish it through Power BI Embedded. The typical agenda is:

  - Introduction to Power BI

  - Creation of the report where we work hands-on with the Power BI Desktop software

  - Embedding of the report on your web

  - Start working with automation of data flows

- Next step: After the workshop we summarize and documents the results of this Proof-Of-Concept together with any suggestions on how to take your reporting solution forward.
