

Modern Work Scan

If significant investments have been made in new IT tools, it is also important to know how they are being used and what is needed to optimize the digital behaviour of employees. Do you want to know what the adoption readiness is of your organization, team or role? The Modern Work Scan is the answer.

Why?

Wouldn't it be great if you had insight into the digital behaviour of your employees? How do they handle documents, collaborate digitally or hold meetings online? The results from the Modern Work Scan answer these questions and more. The scan is not so much about how good employees are at using their IT, but more about how they experience it and how they want to develop it further. In this way, the scan enables organizations to gain insight into both the current and desired digital behaviour of employees. Follow-up measurements are a standard part of this. This creates a good overview of the current adoption rate of the organization, the development ambition and the actual progress.

How does it work?

Using various scenarios such as online meetings, file management and task management, the scan asks employees about their current behavior. This gives you concrete insight into the improvements that can be made and how productivity and collaboration within the organization can be improved. All these insights can be analyzed per department, function or type of user.

The result

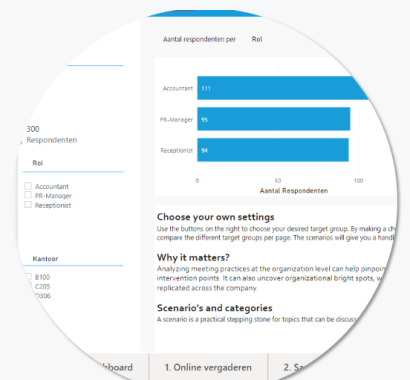

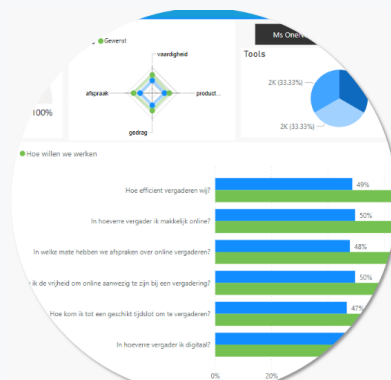

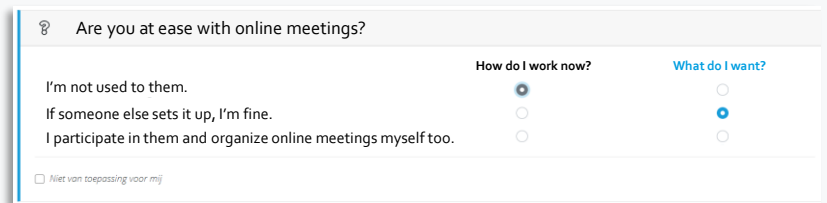

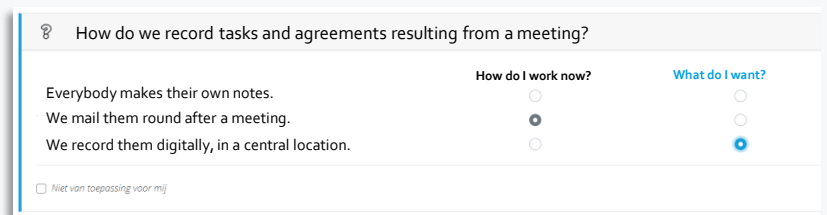

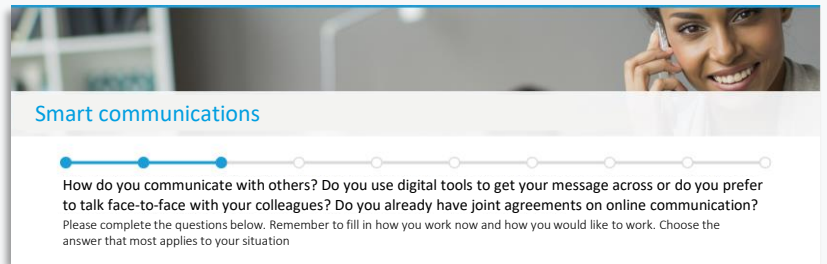

We provide a dashboard in which the results of the entire organization can be examined. This allows us to compare the goals of your organization with the current way of working and the ambitions of employees. Per scenario it becomes clear what can be improved and how much acceptance there is within the organization. In addition, each employee can see his or her individual results and immediately start to work smarter by working with those results.

Modern Work Scan supports you in taking targeted next steps to promote digital behavior. Productive use of digital resources is within reach.

The questionnaire with 7 practical working scenarios is answered by the employees.

Employees answer each question 2 times: "How do I work now?" and "How would I like to work?"

All results visible in a Power BI dashboard. This allows you to start working with the results immediately.

Want to know more?

Do you need more return on IT investments and a better image of IT? Do you want to significantly improve knowledge sharing, (online) collaboration and communication?

www.1uur.nu