Enterprises are feeling the pain

Applications, employees and data are moving to the cloud

Outside the enterprise's traditional zone of control

Security, privacy and performance must be addressed by organizations

Improving strategies as new technologies   emerge and expand

MARKET NEEDS

Enterprise customers do not have the security knowledge or/and resources to stay on top of evolving threats

Enterprise customers need to make sure their configurations and posture are aligned to best practices

Require actionable recommendations to ensure that they are responding correctly to threats

As the security landscape evolves, products evolve and customers expect their posture to evolve too.
