We designed a solution that is currently missing from the Information Security toolbox

Protects organisations and people from impersonation and social engineering attack vectors which are increasing daily

Enables mutual identity verification via secure, consent-based access to sensitive data

Provides a simple mechanism for trust, independently of any process that requires it

Reduces access to and limits the proliferation of commercial and personally sensitive data through real-time explicit consent