Drive Microsoft 365 Adoption Success through an effective Adoption and Change Management

Change doesn't just happen. The majority of people within an organization need an intervention to change themselves. Leaders and Change Managers need to proactively manage the desired outcome to reach more than 75% of their employees. Successful change requires both, the technical and the personnel side of change. A Change Management effectiveness study by PROSCI® says that the likelihood of achieving their goals becomes higher with effective Change Management to meet or exceed their goals.
