

MANAGED KEYS

Reduce cost and application services downtime with automated key/certificate lifecycle management.

As the requirements for security increases, most enterprise scale products and solutions include some sort of cryptography and/or digital signatures making use of keys/certificates.

However, these keys/certificates requires renewal, distribution, validation of trust, installation into various products etc.

With our key lifecycle management solution, you can automatically and effectively manage any type of keys/certificates inside your organization and across business relations.

This is because the solution has a flexible workflow engine for provisioning and renewals as well as specialized installation 'agents' that understands the inner workings of many infrastructure products and applications from multiple vendors. For custom and in-house applications, the agent can be customized to work directly with the application.

End-to-end managed security services provided by our security specialists

Our implementation consultants have many years of experience with designing and operating secure infrastructure platforms, custom applications and -services.

This allows us to better understand how your solution really works even if documentation is poor or missing.

With this knowledge we can prevent downtime, optimize your solution or just manage its keys/certificates as it is.

When problems occur, we can provide solutions instead of just pointing to the vendors of the application/platform that is making use of the keys.
