

Azure Virtual Desktop (AVD)

Discovery

The AVD Discovery helps businesses prepare for the adoption of AVD. A Microsoft-funded solution assessment will provide the data to help enable your organisation to experience its office environment from anywhere in the world with access to any device. Cloud Direct will work with you to make sense of the data and provide actionable next steps in line with technical requirements, cost efficiencies and security.

Kickstart your AVD project

Understand your user profiles, user experience and resource requirements. This allows you to identify opportunities that will create business value for remote working to build resilience in your business continuity plans and keep your organisation productive in any situation.

Align to Microsoft's best practice

The AVD Discovery service takes a ton of data and we help you make sense of it. Understand what an optimal environment looks like and how you can implement it with best practice guidance from Microsoft. This will improve your user profiles, user experience and resource usage.

Gain confidence to take action

We believe in partnering with our customers and transferring knowledge. Be confident and able to demonstrate the benefits of migrating and optimising your environment in the cloud to business leadership.
