About RR Service

Today many organizations embark on a transformation journey... either compelled by business or technology or both... BI Reports are a key mechanism through which business users consume insights to make important decisions. However, over time, organizations tend to produce and accumulate a huge number of reports that makes it counter-productive and extremely challenging to glean accurate insights for decision-making.

"To remediate these challenges, it is imperative to define a strategy for report rationalization and adopt a structured approach towards rationalizing reports across different business units and functions."
