Unified Data Governance, Microsoft Purview implementation by Kyndryl Services

Customer challenges

For organizations seeking ways to remain competitive and comply with evolving regulations, maintaining a data-centric approach is key. And as organizations rely more heavily on data, the need to access and turn the data into actionable business insight grows more urgent. That is why actively governing the data through appropriate strategies is ever more critical. Challenges include complexity and concerns around:

→ Designing data governance strategy based on needs and constraints
→ Defining and maintaining data policy, as required by law and industry standards
→ Identifying data issues and remediating them early
→ Managing data access based on the role and need
