

LEBLANC

“Quantum leap in application development productivity”

At LeBLANC Finland Oy, we operate on a simple yet powerful principle: "Everything that can be automated, should be automated" in application development.

As the creators of LeBLANC, a revolutionary set of tools that significantly streamlines line-of-business application development, we're transforming the conventional development process. Our innovative solution reduces the development effort by at least 50%, often even more. And yes, we can prove it.

To automate every aspect of software development

Our mission is to modernize the concept of software factories. The automation we provide cuts both time and cost by half. You focus on the essentials (the business content), we automate the rest. Simple as that.

Revolutionize the development process

Transform requirements into a design, and generate a fully functioning application from the model. Next: Iterate, until they're satisfied with the results. Coding is utilized only in the final phases of the project, enhancing the key aspects of the application. The result? Enterprise grade, robust, secure and scalable cloud native application.

Our tools and method, perfected through decades of experience in line-of-business application development, excel at managing the intricacies of large and complex projects.
