
Workspace Studio Containers: used for front-end operations where end-users log in to the system and perform workitem operations like initiating new workitem, data entry operations, etc.

Automation Studio Containers: used for back-end operations where the internal user or developer performs back-end operations like Process designing, BAM report generation, BRMS Rule generation, etc.