Azure Cloud Transformation Strategy

Business and IT Overview

We will gather information to help us deeply understand your business and the state of your current infrastructure. What does your company make/sell/offer? What is the organizational structure – who "owns" the IT systems? What is your history of technology, and where are your servers and devices located today?

Define Cloud Migration Objectives

Next, we will work with you to define the objectives for your migration, the timeline, the business goals behind your move to the cloud, and outline how success will be measured.

Analysis of Current Infrastructure

We will conduct a thorough analysis of your entire infrastructure, including any existing system diagrams, physical/virtual specs, server and storage dependency, and identify your security and backup needs. We will also evaluate all of your applications and app data, file shares, and network drives, as well as any access management, SLA, and change management needs.

Azure Migration Scope and Deep-Dive

As we outline the scope for your migration, we'll also take a deep-dive to determine any additional Azure technologies or capabilities you might be interested in or that we would recommend to address any particular needs for your business.

Infrastructure Readiness in Azure

By assessing your infrastructure readiness, we will be able to identify any compatibility issues and determine if there are any servers or applications that need to be upgraded.

Cost Analysis

Here we will provide an analysis of the cost of servers, backup, and security with optimization in the cloud, along with the estimated cost of workloads with Hybrid benefits and Reserved Instance.
