Microsoft Teams End-User Training

Is your organization making the most out of your collaboration tools?

We believe that successful Microsoft Teams rollouts are enhanced by end-user training. Our Teams End-User Training Workshops are designed to provide your end-users with a demonstration, hands-on training and guidance on the effective use of Teams within your organization.

What's included in the engagement:

- An overview of Teams features and functionality
- Custom training to meet your specific goals
- Two, multi-hour end-user training sessions for the organization

Why your organization needs Teams training

One of the biggest stumbling blocks organizations see in end-user adoption is the lack of experience using the technology. This lack of experience and training can cause frustration for end-users, limiting the adoption of Teams. These frustrations and lack of adoption can cost your organization money in lost productivity.

With Teams end-user training, your organization can build excitement and faster adoption, and allow all departments to focus on growing your business.

Engagement results & takeaways

- Post-training recording of your sessions that can be used to train future hires
- Branded presentation materials
- Engaged and educated end-users
- Increased adoption and productivity
