Microsoft Power Platform – Explore

Create a Design Blueprint towards your own digital future.

Successful businesses don't stand still. They are always striving to improve productivity and remove inefficiencies across all functions. Microsoft Power Platform can help minimise the risk of human error and through automation, address and solve various businesses challenges as well as enhance your business processes.

But where and how do you start?

What repetitive tasks need to be automated. Should you focus on data entry, a more compliant approval or faster onboarding process or even set up business notifications and alerts. Do you need to build a reporting service that surfaces insights from across your organisation.

The list is endless, and the opportunities are vast.

How do you understand the scope and the myriad of technologies involved as well as manage and schedule your own resources.

If you've got a business problem, we can quickly help you pinpoint it, unravel it, design it and plan it.

Xpedition will deliver a discrete design blueprint to plan and adopt Microsoft Power Platform to achieve your business outcomes. It will visualise how the solution is going to align to your objectives to help you move forward.

You will realise the art of the possible with your current Microsoft technologies and how Power Platform can tackle your specific challenge.

So what is included?

Through functional and technology workshops, we will review, generate and document the requirements. We will work with you to identify which of the Microsoft products and services are most appropriate and how they will compliment or replace legacy processes and technologies.

You will receive a high-level functional design as well as a technical design that governs how the Microsoft technologies will be incorporated. In particular, how Microsoft Power Platform will solve your business challenge and how it will be integrated into your overall technology estate.

You will have the scope, understanding of the technology, and ultimately the confidence to achieve your business goals.

So what will I get?

Clarity of which technologies are going to be used, who needs to be involved and how the project is going to run.

Visibility of how Microsoft Stack Technologies are going to address your specific requirements.

Transparency of the effort, cost and the impact to your business and user communities.

A plan and a way forward to revolutionise the way you do business now.

Confidence and realistic expectation in what the art of the possible is.
