Teams Phone Readiness Review

Empower a hybrid workforce with Teams Phone System

In recent years, many businesses have leveraged Microsoft Teams flexible approach to deliver communication and collaboration for employees who were dispersed through necessity. With the changes in circumstances and the return to more “normal” ways of working, organisations have now adopted remote or hybrid working patterns as a long-term strategic decision.

Now more than ever, businesses need a modern communications solution that provides an inclusive experience for all participants, whether they're in the office or not. Microsoft Teams Phone System provides the features organisations need to deliver seamless, collaborative experiences for employees, business partners, and customers.

You already have Teams audio & video calling deployed, and your people are communicating internally with Teams every day. However, your people still rely on desk phones, dedicated soft phones or mobile phones for external calling and now you want to consolidate telephony services into Teams.

- Introducing the Teams Phone Readiness Review Workshop – a short engagement to review where you are in your modern communications journey.
- We'll analyse your Teams deployment and make recommendations for optimisations and enhancements that will help you prepare for Teams Phone System.
