Permission based Messaging, File Sharing, Collaboration for The Modern Organization.

Factors That Affect Your Effectiveness As An Organization.

- Single projects require too many programs, apps and platforms
- Simple tasks become labor-intensive, resulting in platform fatigue
- No intuitive way to move forward cohesively
- Email is over-used and abused

As a professional organization, ask yourself the following questions.

- Would the organization like to be able to search the company for knowledge from one single point of entry?
- Is it important to the organization to own the business critical data and keep it safe?
- Is the knowledge of the employees its greatest asset?
- Experiencing heavy loads of internal emailing?
- How does the organization efficiently communicate & collaborate remotely with staff, vendor, clients?

#23minuteslost*

Non-contextual collaboration results in information spread out over a disconnected set of apps, complicated, multi-tool workflows, and channel/notification overload.

There is a time drain and knowledge runoff associated with this fragmented approach, which represents real costs to every company or organization.

* "Office workers are interrupted roughly every three minutes, academic studies have found...It can take some 23 minutes for a worker to return to the original task, says Gloria Mark, a professor of informatics at the University of California, Irvine, who studies digital distraction." – Wall Street Journal
