

You.com is foundational enterprise intelligence that amplifies the speed and accuracy of business decision making. The company was founded in 2020 by Richard Socher and Bryan McCann, both leading research scientists at Stanford and Salesforce. Richard is the fourth most cited NLP researcher and is considered the father of prompt engineering, which is the primary entry point for understanding what “you” are trying to ask or understand. You.com was the first company to integrate a web index with LLM in 2022, first to incorporate multi-modal chat.

Today, you.com makes enterprise knowledge workers 2x more productive in their workloads and 90% more productive with better search results. The company is the only solution that both supports all leading LLMs (future proofing against the LLM arms race) and allowing integration with any proprietary (private RAG) or public data sources including real time search results. You.com enterprise customers are not experimenting with AI, they are in production, increasing productivity and automating complex workflows with customized AI agents.

Over 1 Billion Queries

Deep expertise in
AI, LLM + search,
& deep data retrieval

Accurate

Accuracy is first and foremost based on understanding your query or prompt and our founders invented prompt engineering.

Real-time

We enable the integration of real time, highly relevant search results from the web.

Customizable

Our agent authoring toolkit provides a limitless variety of options for automating the most complicated workflows or multi-stage querying.

Any LLM, Any Data

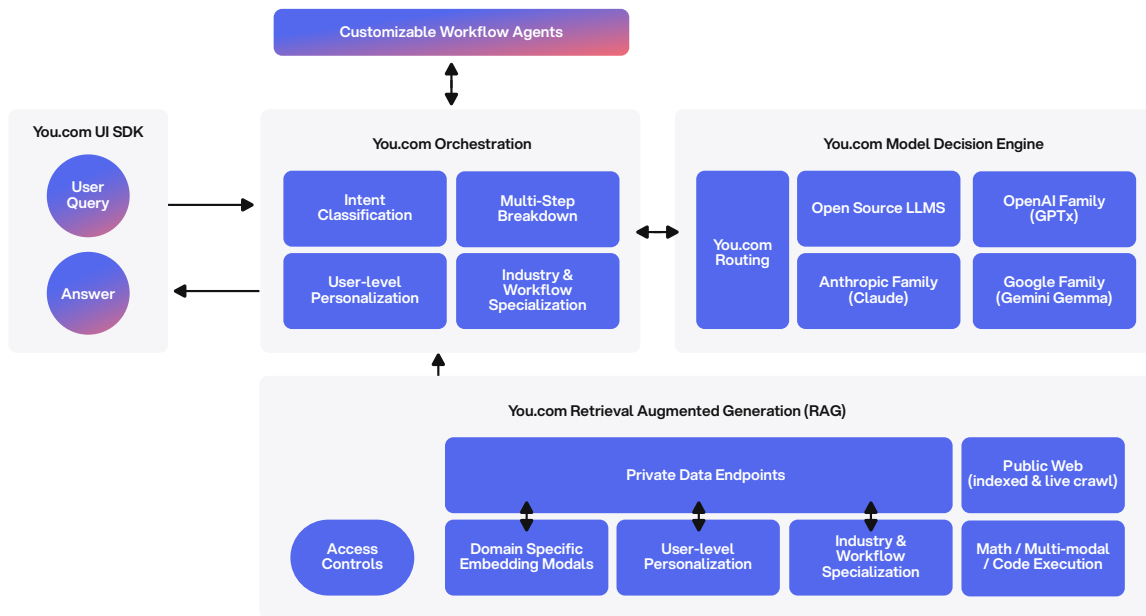

We support querying across all leading LLMs, public data, and private RAGs from 1KB to 1TB.

“In the best-case scenario, a typical pharma scientist would spend hours and days trying to retrieve information from sequencing data. You.com and Elucidata are unveiling a game-changing LLM solution designed specifically for biomedical researchers, revolutionizing how researchers navigate the vast ocean of sequencing data alongside publications and other modalities of data. We imagine the future where this data will be a few keystrokes away, enabling scientists to bring better therapies for patients.” – Abhishek Jha, Elucidata CEO

You.com Custom AI Solutions
